Dear Recruiter,

My name is Harshit Singh; I am an international graduate student currently pursuing Master in Computer Science at Stevens Institute of Technology due for completion by December 2016.

During my under-graduation from computer science, I worked on two academic projects for one commercial project, while during my graduation I gained hands-on experience with e-commerce platform such as shopify, databases, amazon web services, google services (such as webmaster, analytics, adwords) and programming languages such as C++ and Java.

I believe myself to be a great fit for your company as I have good academic standing, three technical paper, development experience with C++, R, Java, and SQL, hands-on experience using Amazon web services, Microsoft Azure, and PostgreSQL, experience working under agile environment, familiarity with agile methods and relevant roles and terminology, strong analytical and fluent communication skills, along with Strong memory, hardworking, deterministic and optimistic nature added to my skill-set I consider having no prior industry experience as an advantage as I can be easily molded according to organizational requirement.

Looking forward to hearing back from you.

Sincerely,

Harshit Singh
